From its roots in the West Midlands - the original industrial hub of the UK - Pertemps has grown over a period of more than 50 years to become the go-to recruiter for clients nationwide who operate specifically within the industrial sectors.

In that time, our division has provided employed workforce solutions to every industrial and manufacturing business imaginable so we fully understand the sector and its nature of needing fast, effective and high quality recruitment, for a day, week, a year or even longer.

Regardless of whether your business requires a selection of people to cover peak production or you need an entire workforce capable of handling a lucrative new contract, our Industrial Division can deliver the right people with the right skills and the right experience.

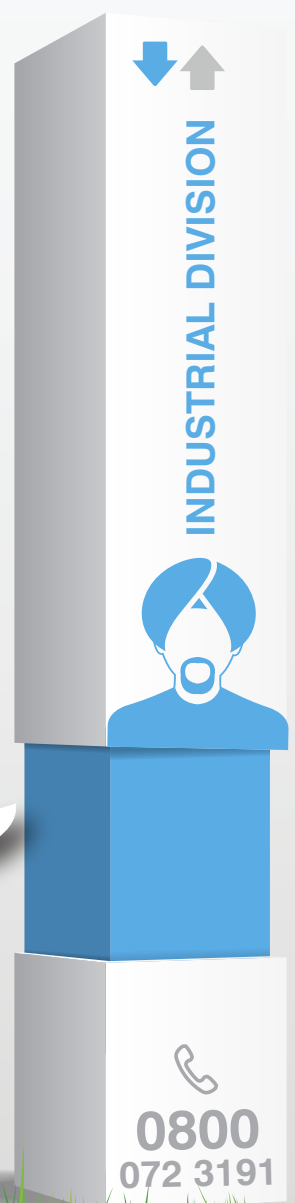

A selection of positions we can cater for include:

Our industrial division places an average of 10,000 temporary workers every day of the week.

Our business has enjoyed a long-term partnership with Pertemps which has allowed both companies to gain a good understanding of how each other operates. Pertemps fully appreciates our changing requirements from week to week and over our peak periods. On average we use approximately 1,200 flexible workers each week and our Pertemps dedicated account team works extremely hard to deliver this service. During our time as partners, I have worked closely with a number of Senior Managers and Directors within Pertemps and have found them both flexible and hard working.

We have been using Pertemps Driver Training since the introduction of the Driver CPC in 2010. Over this time our drivers have been able to build a relationship with the trainer year on year. As a business we have been able to tailor the annual training to meet both our needs and those of our drivers. To this end, Pertemps has been exemplary and engaged with our drivers in a positive way.

Heading into year five of our plan I can see absolutely no reason why we would not choose to commit to another five years with Pertemps; a first class working relationship.

Traditionally, our business had never really worked with a recruitment agency. However, our business started to experience a significant peak in demand meaning we needed to undertake some high volume recruitment within a very short timeframe. The majority of the required jobs demanded workers with a specific set of technical skills so we set about looking to partner with a recruiter. Pertemps stood out for us as they were able to identify a pool of appropriately skilled workers within a relatively short period of time. They have always delivered and our working relationship is strong.
